A Historical Fiction story about a specific area in Conifer Colorado, and a beautiful meadow called Piano Meadows... The story is written about the historical significance of being Pioneers in both the 1870s and the 1970s. It is not about their Christian or Mormon beliefs but instead their Pioneer spirit. The first part of each chapter, dating back in the 1870s, features a young ranch-hand/cowboy from Nebraska seeking gold in Colorado. The second part of each chapter, also dating back in the 1870s features three Mormon families from Illinois wintering in Colorado and then continuing their trek to Salt Lake City. The third part of each chapter dating back in the 1970s features a young family moving from Denver’s suburbia to a newly developed area within Conifer called Shiloh. Each group has fond memories of a special meadow on Riley Ridge, below Riley Peak, called Piano Meadows...

- Photographic Guide to the Butterflies of Britain and Europe
- PHStat2 CD
- Photo London
- Physics Exercises: Questions and Answers
- Physical Education - Primary Source Edition
- Physiotherapie Und Prothetik Nach Amputation Der Unteren Extremitat